WORLD LEADERS ARRIVE DEAR PARENTS AND FRIENDS

Principal James Horne

This month Saints will play host to The Augustinian Values Institute, an annual gathering of Augustinian educators. While enjoying the local climate, visitors from North America, Ireland, England and Australia will dig deeper into our core values of Unitas, Veritas, and Caritas (community, truth and love). In particular, they will examine how these values can be integrated into campus life and provide a common tradition and experience for students in Augustinian schools. Being united in purpose and in the pursuit of our faith and beliefs is contrary to many societal messages. We live in a world that seems to thrive on difference. In trying to identify ourselves we often tend to look past our commonalities and look for some unique expression of difference.

CARING KNOWS NO BOUNDARIES

Mohamed Khalil, '18

During the Christmas break, St. Augustine High School sophomore Mohamed Khalil chose to give back to those in need. Mohamed (Mo) and his family traveled to Jerusalem for Christmas, the hometown of his father Kassem.

His mission of charity and service took him east to a UNICEF "Save the Children" refugee camp in Jordan; a camp called Al Zartarti. Most of the refugees in the camp were Syrians who were forced away from their homes and families in search of safety and a new life in Jordan.

Mo also had the opportunity to teach math and play soccer with stu-

FOUR SAINTSMEN NAMED HISPANIC SCHOLARS

This year, Saints has four National Hispanic Scholars. They are, Carlos Orendain, Brennan Amsberry, Juan Lara, and Christopher Guadarrama, all seniors.

The National Hispanic Recognition Program is based on the students scoring among the top 2.5% of Hispanic and Latino students in the region on the PSAT-NMSQT test which is taken in the junior year.

These students also needed grade point averages of a 3.0 or higher.

The College Board, to identify outstanding Hispanic high school students and to share information about these academically well-prepared students with subscribing colleges and universities, initiated national Hispanic Recognition Program (NHRP) in 1983.

Augustine as a Young Man

Ancient Hippo Regius is modern day Annaba, Algeria on the Mediterranean coast.

A student is one who is:

ATTENTIVE AND WILLING

God does not give you a mark on your talents, but on your willingness. If God knows that you wanted to do something but were unable to, he marks you just as if you had done it. That you have done what you were able to, although you may have failed to achieve what you wanted, counts in your favor; that you tried to do something and you were not able to, counts as if you had done so. (Sermon 18,5)

Do what you can. God asks no more. (Sermon 128,10,12)

There are some that, although they don't sleep, doze. They don't give themselves over completely to sleep but they abandon their eyelids to sleepiness and, as they become drowsy, they nod. Instead of taking the reins of their life, they are taken without direction by her. Wake up and be alert! (Commentary on the Psalms, 131,8)

Scholars names are posted on a national list, which is circulated to all colleges and universities nation-wide. Colleges are then able to contact students regarding recruitment and scholarship possibilities. Many colleges use this status to offer full tuition scholarships. In other cases, the designation is seen as making admissions candidates more competitive. Saints has had National Hispanic Scholars annually. For more information visit www.collegeboard.org/nhrp

In order to be eligible, students must be at least one-quarter Hispanic. Each year the NHRP identifies approximately 5,000 of the highest scoring students from a nationwide total of 250,000 high school juniors who took the PSAT/NMSQT and designated themselves as Hispanic as well as approximately 200 of the top scoring PAA students from Puerto Rico. The nationwide selection also includes students from Puerto Rico, U.S. Virgin Islands, Guam, and U.S. citizens attending international and APO schools.

BENEFITS

Although the College Board is not able to provide a monetary award to these students, an important component of the program is the CD-ROM distributed to subscribing four-year postsecondary institutions. This CD-ROM lists the names of all students selected in the program and is mailed in September to these subscribing colleges and universities. Being listed as a National Hispanic Scholar may give students an opportunity to hear from colleges that are particularly interested in communicating with prospective students of Hispanic heritage.

ELIGIBILITY REQUIREMENTS

Qualification for recognition is based on the student's combined verbal, math, and writing skill scores on the PSAT/NMSQT taken in the student's junior year of high school. PSAT score cut-offs vary each year by state, but typically range in the high 180s/low 190s. Students must also self-identify themselves as Hispanic on the PSAT/NMSQT. A minimum grade point average is established for the program and this academic information is requested directly from the high schools.

To qualify for this program, you must be at least one-quarter Hispanic/Latino. Hispanic/Latino is an ethnic category, not a racial category, and you may be of any race. For purposes of the NHRP, you must be from a family whose ancestors came from at least one of these countries: Argentina, Bolivia, Brazil, Chile, Colombia, Costa Rica, Cuba, Dominican Republic, Ecuador, El Salvador, Guatemala, Honduras, Mexico, Nicaragua, Panama, Paraguay, Peru, Puerto Rico, Spain, Uruguay, or Venezuela.

SAINTSMEN ATTEND USD'S CHANGEMAKER CONFERENCE

Faculty member Mrs. Marie-Line Allen and a group of 30 Saintsmen attended the recent 2016 Youth Town Meeting at the University of San Diego. The 19th annual conference focused on the influence of youth over our world: for better or worse. It was held at USD's Joan B. Kroc Institute for Peace and Justice.

Saintsmen unanimously applauded the content of the day and came back to campus with a strengthened resolve to make a positive impact on their local and global communities.

This year, more than 800 high school students from San Diego and Baja California attend this youth conference, where they discuss important global topics with leading experts from public and private organizations.

YTM's are grounded in the belief that youth have much to offer and much to gain from discussion with experts and professionals regarding the complexities and challenges of international affairs.

Conference programming zeroed in on the positive and negative impact that youth can have on social, economic, environmental, policy and technology-based issues. Subjects such as girls' access to education, gun violence, poverty, water, sexual violence gave students an invitation to examine global issues openly, hear from speakers who spoke of their challenges and actions that have been successful. Through their participation, students at the YTM can be inspired to be changemakers, too.

"WorldLink really exists as a way for them to tackle a lot of real issues and have them at the discussion, decision-making and problem-solving table," said Debbie Martinez, a senior IPJ program officer at USD and the director of USD's WorldLink Program. "They get to explore what this all means for them. Maybe they want to pursue business and connect to peacebuilding or connect art and peacebuilding. It's really an opportunity for them to explore how they can make that little step, make their imprint in the world."

The YTM is a student-run event. They serve as moderators, journalists, photographers and many presenters were energetic and impactful difference makers who aren't far removed age wise from their audience.

Alaa Basatneh, a Syria native who as a 19-year-old college student in Illinois, was able to mobilize a Syrian revolution from her Chicago bedroom with social media tools that helped smaller protest groups connect into a larger force. Her story was captured in the award-winning documentary, #ChicagoGirl. Basatneh's talk Wednesday included film clips and she encouraged students to share issues they have a passion for and what they're doing about it.

Erica Ales and Joyce Im work on campaigns connected to Malala Yousafzai

of Pakistan, a teenager who has become a global inspiration and a vocal leader for girls' education access. A co-recipient of the 2014 Nobel Prize, Yousafzai's work has inspired creation of the Malala Fund, which is dedicated to giving girls the opportunity to complete 12 years of safe, quality education. A documentary, "He Named Me Malala," was released in 2015. Ales said more than 60 million girls are denied access to education. Im, who is an educational outreach associate for the Students Stand With Malala, had students work in small groups to create a short digital art video by recording their voices to recite lines from the Malala Fund anthem, "Words on Fire."

YTM Director Martinez said she's proud of WorldLink and the chance to work with young people in a college setting like USD, which has an innovative campus atmosphere, takes pride in building emerging leaders and hosts an event where the next generation can learn about avenues to build peace and build a better future.

"Today, we're 800 strong, and from here, these students will take what they've learned and it will trickle into their communities," Martinez said.

Saintsmen interested in participating in YTM should contact faculty class counselors or Mrs. Marie-Line Allen on campus.

Office for Schools

Dear Catholic School Parents,

The Diocese of San Diego has a rich tradition of educating generations of Catholics in our local parishes and schools. We are the largest private school system in the area, encompassing 50 schools in two counties, San Diego and Imperial, and impacting the lives of approximately 15,000 children in our elementary and high schools. The potential for growing our impact is unparalleled in this region, and that is why supporting Catholic education is vital to building the future of our local Church.

The 2016-2017 school year marks the diocese's second year of the Bishop Flores Scholars Tuition Assistance Program to provide annual K-12 tuition assistance totaling $1,000,000.00. We believe that Catholic education should be both affordable and accessible to every child and family who desires it regardless of their background, neighborhood, family income, or culture.

Our mission is to provide tuition assistance for children in need to attend Catholic schools in the Diocese of San Diego. Direct support of our Catholic families is critical to the success of our Catholic schools and to meeting that same mission. In addition to providing a quality Catholic education for San Diego and Imperial County children, our schools provide a character formation education where children are instilled with Catholic values, thus preparing them to lead as globally aware and productive citizens.

In honor of Catholic Schools Week, families may apply for the Bishop Flores Scholars Tuition Assistance Program beginning January 29, 2016 through March 18, 2016. For information on eligibility, deadlines, applicant qualifications, award distributions, costs, recipient responsibilities and other facts, please talk to your local school's administrators and visit the Bishop Flores Scholars Tuition Assistance Program website at <http://www.bishopfloresscholars.org>.

Thank you in advance for your interest and participation in the Bishop Flores Scholars Tuition Assistance Program. You are directly supporting our vision for the total mission of our schools: "Not only will these children become the Church of tomorrow, but they will also fill the most important roles in leadership and ministry as the Church reaches out to the world."

In Christ,

LAKE RUNAMUCK TEMPORARILY STALLS NEW GYM PROJECT

The new student center construction site temporarily turned into lakes from the heavy rains we had at New Year's and as a result work was basically at a standstill from the last week of December until mid-January. During that time much of the work was focused on water abatement.

As inclement weather is to be expected, DPR's construction team went into its rain mode to get the project back on track—By Steve Chipp.

NO FISHING—El Nino inspired storm fronts drenched San Diego in early January creating Lake Runamuck on campus. The weather experienced DPR construction water abatement crew quickly drained the ponds.

SEA CHANGE—Checking out the site after the big rains are (left to right): Joseph Beeson, DPR's project superintendent and project engineer; David Pfeifer, project architect David Pfeifer of domusstudios with DPR's Jessie Carey and Frank Jones DPR's project executive overlook the job site. Mr. Pfeifer's son David is a Saints sophomore.

WHEN IN DROUGHT—Lake Runamuck and its sister puddles were siphoned into tanker trucks that delivered the water to outlying farms to assist in drought relief.

BUSINESS AS USUAL—It didn't take long before DPR was back on the job almost if it never rained at all.

LAKEFRONT PROPERTY—Another view of the rainwater that collected on campus after the big rainstorms, which greeted the New Year.

COMMITTED AND STUDIOUS

God made you without you. You didn't, after all, give any consent to God making you. How were you to consent, if you didn't yet exist? So while God made you without your help, God does not save you without your help. (Sermon 169,11,13)

Nevertheless, although I am not able to do all that I wish, that is no reason not to do all that I can. (Letter 166,1)

It is of no use "to know" the truth, if, at the same time, you do not embrace it with your life. It is necessary to build on a sure foundation that is "to hear" and "to do". The one that hears, and does not do it, builds on sand. The one that hears neither nor does it, builds nothing. The one that hears and does, builds on stone. (Commentary on the Psalms, 58,17)

FRIENDLY AND COMMUNITY ORIENTED

We need the gifts of others to make up for what is lacking in ourselves. (Commentary on the Psalms, 125,13)

I don't speak as a schoolmaster or teacher, but as a servant or minister. I don't speak to pupils, but to fellow students; not to servants, but to fellow servants. There is but a single Teacher whose school is on earth and who teaches us from on high. (Sermon 292,1,1)

Before all else, those of you who come together in community live together in harmony, being of one mind and one heart on the way to God...You are all to live together, therefore, one in mind and one in heart and honor God in each other because each of you has become His temple. (Rule 1,1-2,8)

A community is a group of individuals bound together by the harmony and communion as to the things they look for and they love. In order to discover the character of a community we have only to observe what they love. (The City of God, 19,24)

OPEN TO THE TRANSCENDENT

O God, you are always the same, let me know myself, let me know you. (Soliloquies, 2,1,1)

Lord, you made human beings in your own image and likeness. This is something those who truly know themselves discover. (Soliloquies, 1,1,4)

Do you want to have God take care of you, hold you in his hand? It is very simple: a will set on good ensures that you stay in God's hand. (Commentary on the Psalms, 39,27)

God is everywhere. Therefore, if you don't fall away from God, God will not move away from you. (Treatise on St. John's Gospel, 34,6)

God wants your love, not that you love him for what you can get from him. Don't forget: God wants to fill your heart, not your pockets. (Commentary on the Psalms, 52,8)

When we do the will of God, then God's will is done in us. (Sermon 58,4)

Lord, all my hope rests in your great mercy. Give what you command, and command whatever you will. (Confessions, 10,29,40)

INTERSESSION 2016

INNOVATIVE EDUCATION

St. Augustine High School's innovative and highly popular mid-year "third semester" program has just completed its eighth year. Called Intercession, the month long program takes place during January. It is an educational opportunity to immerse students in real-life studies. This year more than 170 students participated in internships as part of their Intercession experience.

THINK LINK—During Intercession Saintsmen visited Qualcomm's Thinkabit Labs with other high school and middle school students from the San Diego area. Thinkabit is a think tank for students. Classes are led by Qualcomm engineers and career coaches who guide students to create, code, collaborate and present robotic creations better known as "Robo Crafts."

NATIONAL POLITICS—Senior Ryan Segura gets a taste of Politics and civil service working for Congresswoman Susan Davis.

DESIGN—Brennan Amsberry (L) and Peter Castagnola (R) learning the finer points of engineering design with Jeff Palhegyi at Palhegyi Designs.

LOCAL POLITICS—Mr. V. Bachynsky's Speech class took a field trip to City Hall this Intercession. District 3 Councilmember Todd Gloria was kind enough after the public meeting to sit with Saintsmen and discuss current policy and issues facing the City and his district.

dents in a small school adjacent to the camp called Al Zarak. The students at the school included refugees from Syria and the poor youth from the neighboring towns in Jordan.

When asked about his time working at the UNICEF camps, Mo said, "It was a great experience, and seeing the daily life of those in the camp made me extremely grateful for the opportunities I have been given"

Mo's story reflects the 94-year-old school's tradition of faith-based education. Education and caring for one another (no matter what denomination the student happens to be) are just two of the basic tenets of the school's Augustinian Order leadership.

"Although they are not singled out," says Principal James Horne, "the school has regularly welcomed students of Muslim and Jewish (and other faiths) backgrounds to its halls over the years. What really matters is God and getting a solid education."

Saintsman Mohamed Khalil (18) brought Saints gear to share with teens he met at the refugee camp he visited during the holiday break in December.

Sophomore Mo was on a mission of charity and service at the "Save the Children" UNICEF refugee camp in Jordan. He traveled there with his family.

NEWS BRIEFS

CAL POLY BOUND—Senior Elijah Preston has accepted a scholarship to attend Cal Poly San Luis Obispo. The Saintsman, who played four years of varsity football, ended his high school career as San Diego CIF section's second all-time leading rusher with 7,196 yards gained. Royce Freeman, who is now playing for Univ. of Oregon holds the record at 7,606 yards.

HOOPLA—Varsity Basketball is doing just fine midway through its 2015-16 season as the attached photo of a recent game shows. Ranked among the top teams in the country, Coach Mike Haupt's team is following a successful pattern, where Saints loses a couple of games early then closes the season in the CIF playoffs. In other words, Coach Haupt has his team right where they need to be.

SORRY, GRAND DAD—And you too, grandma because there will be no Grandparent's Day in 2016 as a result of possible bad weather and the ongoing campus construction project that has made access difficult for all. The school promises once construction of the new Student Center is complete, Grandparents Day will be back on schedule.

WORLD LEADERS ARRIVE

Our conference for these Augustinian educators is an expression of our commonalities. It is a celebration of the strong communal atmosphere in our schools; one that expresses love and promotes the search for truth.

Each of these visiting schools share wonderful and heartwarming stories about the "community feeling" on their campuses. And now they will experience first-hand the sense of community and hospitality at Saints, one that impacts our campus, our Church and the San Diego region.

Please pray for us and for the gathering that will happen February 19-21, 2016. May God continue to bless the teachers, coaches and staff in Augustinian schools worldwide.

Yours in the Spirit of Catholic, Augustinian Education,

James Horne
Principal

Mission of St. Augustine High School – Our mission is to provide a Catholic liberal arts education for young men in an environment that promotes the development of mind, heart and body in the Augustinian tradition. By helping to form loving disciples of Jesus Christ we communicate to the world the gospel values of community, truth and love.
